Brief Report

As part of the observation of World Forest Day, BMC organized a field visit on 21.03.2025 to provide students with firsthand experience of the forest ecosystem, raise awareness about biodiversity conservation, and foster a sense of environmental responsibility. A total of 16 students participated in this initiative, engaging in activities that highlighted the importance of forests in sustaining life and maintaining ecological balance. The program allowed students to explore the rich biodiversity, understand the impact of deforestation, and appreciate the need for conservation efforts. This immersive experience strengthened their commitment to environmental stewardship and reinforced the significance of protecting natural habitats for future generations.
