Brief Report

In association with World Wetland Day, the book titled "Ecohydrology of Kerala", authored by Prof Dr. Salom Gnana Tanga Vincent et al., was released. The book, Ecohydrology of Kerala: River Catchments and Coastal Backwaters, draws on two decades of research to offer suggestions for sustainable management strategies to address challenges arising from human impacts on surface water systems. Analyzing the current water system in Kerala alongside global trends such as climate change aims to enhance the region’s database and facilitate the transition to a knowledge society as part of the Nava Kerala (New Kerala) initiatives, which were highly appreciated by attendees for their comprehensive research and contributions to wetland ecosystem studies.
